Shahid tells why his film is unique

Actor SHAHID KAPOOR believes the sheer intensity of Kabir Singh and the lead character makes it unique and special. 'It's what attracted me to do this film. I believe there is a Kabir Singh inside everyone...'

'I am elated to be part of a Mira Nair (A Suitable Boy) project. I've been one of the biggest admirers of her work and cannot wait to make this illustrious story come alive. During the process of screen tests, I read a few parts but it was the character of Rasheed that really attracted me as an actor. I'm glad that this project came my way.'

UNICEF will honour actress PRIYANKA CHOPRA with the Danny Kaye Humanitarian Award at the Unicef Snowflake Ball in December. Priyanka, a global Unicef Goodwill Ambassador for Child Rights, took to social media and wrote 'So humbled. Thank you Unicef for honouring me with the award.'

Fathers are amazing, for all their bad ideas, sports training and life advice. They have given us a lot of love and support because of which, we're who we are today. Just like that, television also has some amazing fathers who we love to watch onscreen and some pretty much relate to all their goodness and sometimes their comic timing that can be pretty off, but adorable.

Phil Dunphy in Modern Family The self-proclaimed cool dad, he is one of the funniest characters on Modern Family. The father of three children is as optimistic as a kid himself and loves adventure. Believer of Peor, renting, he is a devoted father putting efforts to make better bonds with the kids by his fun tricks and talks. Always ready to go miles for his friends and family, happy-go-lucky and an avid follower of sci-fi and fantasy, he is clearly one of the most loving dads on television. The show airs on Star World.

Jack Geller in FRIENDS From raising his kids for their achievement to being upright with his own ones, he tries his best to be a good dad and does a brilliant job. Talking to them after their break-ups and failures, consoling them, preserving their childhood memories to giving them a

Ode to onscreen fathers

In this age of binge-watching, we spend more time with virtual fathers than our real ones. Here's a look at the ones we love on television. BY TEAM VIVA

Forshe, he comes with a lot of surprises. A progressive and open-minded father who lets his children fight their own battles while constantly being a strong pillar of support. The show is available on Netflix.

Walter White in Breaking Bad Who would have thought a chemistry teacher going through a mid-life crisis and fighting deadly cancer would turn into a complete badass? Finding it difficult to make ends meet, he decides to sell drugs only to provide for his family. From buying a brand new sports car to destroying and burning it, he has always been full of surprises and who doesn't like surprises, right? The show is currently streaming on Netflix.

Rind Wolgast in The Passage The federal agent, Rind Wolgast is not the biological father of Amy but when he finds out that the girl's life is in danger, he decides to protect her. His fights against all the odds to save the orphan girl from a deadly experiment conducted by the secret medical facility of the US government. Even though, Amy is not his real daughter, he never treats her any different. Now who wouldn't want a man like that to be their father. The show airs on Star World.

Logan Roy in Succession What makes Logan a really interesting character is his mysterious persona. He gives his kids a hard time but that is because he believes they need to go through it. He makes sure his kids never take for granted what they've inherited and not married. He walks with a certain pride and thinks that he's the best of the best. He's the most loving and protective of his daughter. It will premiere on Star World on June 17.

David Budd in Bodyguard A war veteran suffering from PTSD and working in the police protection force as a bodyguard, has his own affairs and is not the most ideal person around. But he can go beyond imagination to protect his children. The heroic personality and the spirit to fight against anyone for the protection of his kids is what makes him a great dad. The show is currently streaming on Netflix.

John Winchester in Supernatural John was blinded by revenge and spent most of his time drinking. He has done some bad things but it will make one think he hasn't been the best father but he has always protected his kids. The upbringing seems hard on the kids but that makes Sam and Dean one of the finest hunters in the world. He seems a tough and less expressive father because of what he has been through. But after reuniting with them, he becomes the happiest that his sons saved the world. The series can be streamed on Amazon Prime.

The dad phenomenon

As Father's day nears, SAKSHI SHARMA examines how time spent with the paternal unit can impact the lives of children

While the role of a mother is celebrated and lauded in popular culture, that of the father often does not often inspire poetry or prose. However, research does not concur with the idea. A study published in the journal of Family Psychology, New York, reveals that both types of involvement — caregiving versus play and the timing, workday versus non-workday can have an impact on the quality of the early father-child relationship. Father's day is the right time to try and get a deeper insight into the relationship between a parent and a child and how it is likely to impact the duo. 'There is no other important influence than a parent for a growing child. It's the comfort, security, affection, attention that you get from your parents that shapes your personality,' says Dr. Sonali Parikh, director, department of Mental Health and Behavioural Sciences, Fortis Healthcare. He further adds that the paternal relationship governs how you feel about yourself, your confidence and self-image. The relationship a child's parents share between them is also exceptionally important. The core to a child's personality is reciprocal relationship with her/his parents. On long-term relationship with a child, he says, 'It brings positivity and stability in your life. The healthier it is, the better you live.'

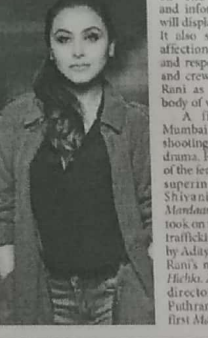

physical growth and personality of the child, he says, a lot of times when parents are not around, children often indulge in substance abuse, which leads to personality disorders including violence against peers and others. 'Males often emulate their fathers as role models. With women, I think it's different, they end up looking for their father figure in the partners they choose. It translates into what you desire in a relationship. It does affect your perception of what you want as a partner in a relationship.' According to Dr Deepak Raheja, psychiatrist, Hope Care, says, 'Father is representative of the authority parental figure as he plays a huge role in shaping up the personality of the children. The time spent with the children results in more resilient bond, which lays the foundation of a person who can deal with conflicts later in life with adequate preparedness.' At a time when mental health issues are at their peak, he feels, when children are faced with interpersonal conflict as adults, depending on the foundation that is crystallised in their mind, they find a more resilient, conflict busting mechanism which enables them to lead a more meaningful life. Laying emphasis on the cycle of life he says, 'There is a stage where the child wants to reach out to you and you are not available. And as the figure' Dr Jitender Nagral, consultant and head of Pediatrics, Starmart Bharati Institute of Science & Research, says, 'In modern times, the relationship of the father with the child is continuously evolving and has emerged as a mutually fulfilling relationship.' He stresses on how the father too grows as a person while interacting and learning with the child. Regarding the long-term benefits, the child looks up to the father in terms of defining the ideal behaviour. When the child is passing through various stages of life, she looks up to his father for guidance and setting benchmarks. So, don't confine the hugs to this Sunday. Extend the love and time beyond it.

Rani gets a special gift

Actor Rani Mukerji recently wrapped up the schedule of Mandala 2, her next film. On the last day of the Rajasthan shoot, she received a gift that overwhelmed her. 'An art director of the film who is also a painter based in Jaipur, Babu Saini, is an old acquaintance and a colleague of Rani. The duo had worked together in Kuch Kuch Hota Hai, which is one of Rani's initial films. They go back a long way as colleagues and are of fond memories of working together. He is also a huge fan of her work and he showed his huge appreciation for Rani by gifting a special portrait of her,' says a source. Saini's portrait depicts Rani in her Mandala 2 look, a film that she is very proud of. 'She was overwhelmed and informed him that she will display this in her house. It also shows the kind of affection and appreciation and respect that technicians and crew members have for Rani as a person and her body of work.' A final schedule in Mumbai will complete the shooting for the YRF crime drama. Rani reprises the role of the fearless and committed super-intendant of police, Shivani Shivaji Roy in Mandala 2. In the film, she took on the kingdom of a child trafficking racket. Produced by Aditya Chopra, this will be Rani's next release after the Hindi, Mandala 2 marks the directorial debut of Gopi Puthran, the writer of the first Mandala film.
